

Our World As We See It: South Surrey White Rock Art Society

August 28 – November 28, 2010

The South Surrey White Rock Art Society was founded nearly fifty years ago to further the creative efforts of its members, spread knowledge and cultivate interest in the visual arts. Since then it has become a robust part of the local art scene. It continues to share several annual art events and activities with its members, and the community at large. In addition the Society has presented its Summer School of the Arts for 10 consecutive years.

The South Surrey White Rock Art Society includes in its membership a wide range of artists, experienced and new, working in a range of media. Throughout the year, we hold painting challenges for all members, which stretch participants to learn and try new ideas or themes. We present substantial public art exhibitions, well-received by the community, two or three times a year. This gives members a chance to show and sell their work, and encourages artistic progress.
